The OSLER SOCIETY of the Zucker School of Medicine in conjunction with the

Hofstra Northwell School of Graduate Nursing and Physician Assistant Studies

presents

The Power of Art and Humor

as a Tool to Improve Communication and Prevent Burnout in Health Professionals

A Comedy in Medicine Workshop/A Humanities in Medicine Program

Working with people who are facing health issues places stress on health professionals and is a frequent cause of burnout. Join Elyse Miller for an interactive workshop that will teach us to use art and humor for self-care and to help prevent burnout, while building self-confidence, self-esteem, and increasing self-expression skills.

Elyse A. Miller, MA, LCAT, ATR-BC, ATCS, BCPC, CLL-E, is an assistant adjunct professor at Hofstra University, in the Creative Arts Therapy program. Ms. Miller is also a Board Certified Professional Counselor (BCPC). She is a Certified Laughter Leader-Expert with The World Laughter Tour, Inc. and uses humor and laughter in her art therapy practice and teaching.

Wednesday, December 4, 2019 12:30-1:45 p.m., Lunch and Program

Zucker School of Medicine, W104-105-106 RSVP: medicine.hofstra.edu/oslerrsvp

Open to faculty and students of the Zucker School of Medicine and the Hofstra Northwell School of Graduate Nursing and Physician Assistant Studies

All are welcome. RSVP required. RSVP at medicine.hofstra.edu/oslerrsvp.

For more information, contact Lisa Martin at Lisa.B.Martin@hofstra.edu.

