DONALD AND BARBARA ZUCKER SCHOOL of MEDICINE AT HOFSTRA/NORTHWELL

This form should be submitted to the Student Research Advisory Committee for consideration. Students may be considered for graduation with Distinction in Research if they, during medical school, significantly contributed to the design and execution of a research project that culminated in the submission of an original article to a peer-reviewed Pub-Med indexed journal. To qualify, the research project must be hypothesis driven. The student's contribution must meet the Hofstra Northwell School of Medicine criteria for authorship (http://medicine.hofstra.edu/about/policies/policies_research_authorship.html) and as such, excludes observational and case-based reports. An application form must be submitted to the Student Research Advisory Committee, a subcommittee of the Student Advancement Committee, by March 1 of the student's graduation year. The Research Advisory Committee will consider each student's participation on a case-by-case basis and invite qualified applicants to present their project and their contribution to its outcome with the committee. A final decision regarding the honor will be made by the committee immediately following the presentation.
